

WE NOMINATE

Moyné Rice Smith, whose wonderful understanding of the importance of "Make-Believe" in the lives of "Cowboys", "Mummies" and "Space Rangers" of assorted ages, shapes and sizes has made the every-day world come to life for hundreds of Junior Princetonians. As founder and director of the Junior Community Players, who this week with Audree Estey's Ballet Groups are sharing the spotlight in the McCarter production of "The Sleeping Beauty," Mrs. Smith has succeeded in developing an "institution" few communities ever possess—a Children's Theatre with "children creating their own plays in their own way."

Starting with the premise that "all children are actors," whether they are fresh home from the circus, or are producing individualized versions of "Let's Play," Mrs. Smith, a resident of Princeton for the past eight years, launched her experiment in 1946 under Group Arts sponsorship in the basement of Miss Fine's School. Months later, with the Community Players' acquisition of Avalon solving the space-problems, she issued the first call for any interested child. "A dozen or so were expected"; some 200 actually reported for the organization that remains open to one and all but is now necessarily restricted to below-high school classes.

At the outset, even for a volunteer director-teacher-producer of her ability and enthusiasm, the Junior Players constituted a seemingly impossible assignment, for their groups met six afternoons a week and skilled assistants were at a premium. Gradually, however, volunteer help materialized and a series of workshop productions—financed by ten-cent admission fees from non-members—proved that in Mrs. Smith's interpretation of creative dramatics, with their emphasis on "imaginative fun and freedom," it is feasible to substitute genuine interest for heavy-handed discipline.

A 45-year old native of Oskaloosa, Kansas, and a Phi Beta Kappa "English Major" at the University of Kansas, Mrs. Smith has been absorbed with things theatrical since grade-school days. She taught, acted in summer stock and directed children's dramatics while studying at the American Academy of Dramatic Arts and gaining her master's degree at Western Reserve University. She later "lived and breathed theater" in and around New York City for a period of six years and, following her marriage in 1938, found time to organize in Redding, Conn., a delightfully informal and typically Smithian dramatic group for children.

For making one of the most significant contributions of the post-war era to the well-being and pleasures of a host of young Princetonians; for supplementing normal educational processes with worthwhile group undertakings; for giving children rare opportunities to be children; she is TOWN TOPICS' nominee for

All Aboard. For those who find themselves a bit bogged down by every-day problems, such as how to make the family car last another year, or how to get along with inascible neighbors, we submit as an escape from such hum-drum affairs the recent discussions of the International Congress of Astronautics. Here, worries about the ancient family buggy are replaced by discussions of a 10,000-ton space ship, and problems involving neighborly living give way to considerations of becoming acquainted with the inhabitants of whatever planets it might reach.

Dr. Lyman Spitzer, Jr., chairman of Princeton University's Department of Astronomy, who was among those attending the session, was reported by The New York Times as taking a distinctly hopeful view of space ship possibilities. Among his suggestions for the future was a space ship which would enable man to hop from an earthly satellite to those that attend other planets in the solar system. To eliminate dangers of radiation, Dr. Spitzer suggested building the ship in two parts — a pilotless engine room and a light control-car which would hold the crew and which would be towed by a cable 60-old miles long.

The Times goes on to say:
"Dr. Spitzer saw no possibility of landing and taking off from a major planet with such a two-piece craft. If we wanted to spend billions in the necessary research, Dr. Spitzer thought we could ultimately build a 10,000-ton space ship which would be driven by a 2,000,000 horsepower atomic pile.

"Thousands could be carried in such a vessel. Other solar systems could be visited in the course of centuries. Whole generations would be born in interplanetary space and learn how to continue a journey begun by their ancestors. Astronauts," The Times concludes, "shrink from nothing."

Being essentially a simple-minded soul, we are just as glad we aren't confronted with the choice of living in such an age. We figure we can run the car for a while longer without benefit of atomic energy, and we've always subscribed to the belief that, in general, people are more fun than anybody. If the Russians will come to look at it that way in time, the space ships can depart without us.

Check on Bad Drivers. New Jersey drivers who become habitual violators of the motor vehicle law will henceforth have a record of their serious infractions kept and will, upon receiving a total of 12 "demerits," be subject to license-revocation for a period up to three years. The plan will start July 1.

cated or under the influence of narcotics, 12 points; responsibility for a fatal accident, 12; leaving scene of accident, eight; reckless driving, six; speeding, four; other violations (except parking), three; three convictions within 18 months, an additional three points.

Records of magistrates' courts will be compiled by the state to maintain the necessary facts. Drivers who forfeit their right to operate a vehicle will, at the end of the three-year period, receive red cards which will serve as licenses on one side and will carry on the other their record of convictions.

New Housing Planned, Princeton

University will have additional faculty housing units this fall as the result of a bequest by Mrs. Gertrude Winans Mathey, wife of Dean Mathey, who died in 1948. The three units of homes will arise on Springdale Road, west of the Graduate College.

The houses will be of brown stone with cedar shingles, somewhat like the famous "Barracks" in Trenton, and will face each other in a central grouping. One unit will contain eight bachelor apartments, each with living-room, bedroom, kitchenette and bath.

The other units, ranging in size from three to four bedrooms, will provide homes for six families. Two and a half stories high, each with separate garages, the units will be started early this summer and will be named in memory of Mrs. Mathey.

Festival Schedule, Westminster

Choir College's annual Talbot Festival will open Wednesday and run through Saturday, to be climaxed by a Festival of Massed Chores in Palmer Stadium on the afternoon of Memorial Day and the 23d annual commencement exercises in the University Chapel on Saturday, May 31.

These two events will be open to the public without charge. Admission cards for other events of interest may be obtained at the college's business office, with a $2 registration fee covering admission to all occasions.

On Wednesday at 4, Rossini's "Messa Solenne" will be sung in the college chapel, while that evening at 8:30, "Village Green" by Carl Allensworth will be staged in the Westminster Playhouse. Dr. Alexander McCurdy and Flora Greenwood McCurdy will give an organ and harp recital Thursday morning at 10:30 in the chapel.

At 2 Thursday afternoon, the Graduate Choir will sing excerpts from Mendelssohn's "Elijah" and from concerts it has presented during the past year. Thursday night at 8, a concert in McCarter Theatre will present selections by Westminster Chorus "past, present and future," as well as by the Columbus Boychoir.

The Festival of Massed Chores, a particularly appealing occasions to both eye and ear, will be staged in Palmer Stadium on Memorial Day at 3. Another concert, this one featuring the Westminster Orchestra and the Columbus Boychoir, will be given in McCarter Theatre Friday night at 8:30. Commencement exercises will be held the following morning at 11 in the University Chapel.

It's New to Us

Let's Have a Picnic! Whether you eat in your own back yard or down by the lake, you'll do well to poke around the stores to see what's new this season.

At Urken's, 27 Witherspoon, you can buy a rack called a Basket-Bruller. At first glance, it looks like the usual picnic hamburger grill with a long handle. Actually, it's an adjustable wire basket. You make a wide space between top and bottom, put in a cut-up chicken or several ears of corn, leak the top shut and hold your meal over the fire until done. Costs $2.95.

Shish kebabs fans can buy four 15-inch skewers (lethal looking things!), each one twisted slightly to hold the meat more firmly. Recipes for shish kebab, barbecued lamb, and veal saté come with this set. Another barbecue item—this one only 98 cents—is a regular spit, heavy enough to spear a small chicken. It has a wooden handle and a flat sharp blade about two feet long.

Like salad on a picnic? We do.
Seems to us that the Salad-Aid is just what its name says it is. For $1.98, you get a six-inch birch chopping block and wooden-handled chopper. Turn the block over and there's a mortar, scooped out of the other side. The chopper's wooden handle becomes your pestle, so you can mash up garlic and herbs and chop your greens all with one set of tools.

Urken's famous cookie wheel is back again, by the way. That's the rotating cutter that cuts out six different cookie shapes each about one and a half inches in diameter.
For $1.10.

Blow Hot, Blow Cold. Don't go away because we're still on that picnic. Luttmann's at 132 Nassau, has the Scotch-Kooler, a big metal pail about 18 inches high and 10 inches across, with red scotch (we can spell it even if the pail-maker can't) plaid painted all over the outside and the top. Fiberglass lining keeps hot or cold.

This big pail (don't let that word mislead you; it's a handsome container) will keep a gallon of ice cream hard without ice for two to three hours. You can leave it on your stoop for the milkman to put milk in when hot weather comes.
We think—but don't wait to Lutt-mann's if we're wrong—you could even use it as a picnic stool, it's that sturdy. Costs only $7.95, too.

Another container, also insulated with fibreglass, is made like a little suitcase. Fire-engine red vinyl plastic, stitched in white, it's lined with pliable yellow plastic. You can wash out this lining, too, in case you forgot to screw the top on the pickle jar.

This bag is designed for actual travel, and it will keep things hot or cold for six to eight hours.
(Note: it does not look like a dierper bag; even husbands could carry it.)

Luttmann's has a utility bag in plaid, too, but it's not insulated.
What it looks like is a big, gaudy shopping bag. Leather zip top, leather bottom. Costs $24 with tax.

Functional Furniture, Mite Size.
If you look in the window at Allen's, 134 Nassau, you'll see a Dine guilty, have been fined on charges of driving automobiles while allegedly intoxicated. The cases were heard by Magistrate Paul R. Chesbro in Borough Hall.

Gregory Williamson of 12 Battle Road denied the charge but Magistrate Chesbro found him guilty on the evidence presented. Patrolman John Chasko signed the complaint, which resulted in a $225 fine and the statement by Mr. Chesbro that he would recommend revocation of Mr. Williamson's New York license. The latter also faces a charge, to be heard next week, that the license in question had already expired.

Edward Mitchell of 37 Leigh Avenue pleaded guilty to driving while intoxicated and paid $225. His license has been revoked for two years.

Fines in the two-hour court session were also imposed on Raymond Richardson, 26 1/2 Leigh Avenue, for allowing an unlicensed driver to operate his car, $50; Miss Cardew, Henck, Westminster Choir College, expired license, $25; Mrs. Marion Olden, Red Hill Road, and William J. Shallow, 163 Nassau Street, speeding, each $10.

School Fair Saturday. Rain or shine, but with many an added attraction if clear weather prevails, Princeton Country Day School's annual fair will be held Saturday afternoon on the Broadmeadow grounds. The traditional baseball game between fathers and sons will open the program.

Mrs. Samuel Hamill and Mrs. Alan Trudnick are co-chairmen of the committee in charge, with Frederick Osborne the treasurer. Food sales will be directed by Mrs. Frederic Hoyt, Mrs. Haas Bauer is in charge of decorations; chances to a Broadway show plus dinner for two have been sold by Mrs. John Pearce and Mrs. Donald Stuart, Jr.; Mrs. Edgar S. Smith has been in charge of publicity and Stanley Smoyer heads the clean-up committee.

Those in charge of various attractions are Mrs. James Carey, balloons; Mrs. J. T. Vollbrecht, pony rides; Mrs. Webb Harrison, general store; Mrs. Guy Dean, flying saucers; Mrs. Frederick M. News of the Theatres

THE McCARTER

The Sleeping Beauty, a dramatic presentation that is receiving the undivided attention of more than 200 Princetonians on and off-stage, will be presented at a matinee performance this Thursday afternoon at 3:30 and again Friday night at 8. It is a joint production of the Junior Community Players and Audree Estey's ballet groups.

Mrs. Joseph Haight is directing the play, which is her own original version of the familiar legend. A cast of adults and children and scores of youngsters in ballet numbers are featured.

Tickets are on sale at the University Store and the theatre. The Thursday matinee is the final event of the Children's Entertainment Series sponsored by the Borough Elementary Schools PTA and tickets sold under its auspices will be honored Thursday.

THE GARDEN

Las Vegas Story (Fri.-Sat.) offers music, murder, a chase by helicopter, humor and songs by Hoagy Carmichael, plus the lushly-built Jane Russell, Victor Mature and Vincent Price are others who appear in the Nevada gambling center. Despite the various bids for attention, the picture is strictly ordinary fare.

The Lavender Hill Mob (Mon.-Wed.), a British import starring able Alec Guinness, is distinctly worth seeing. A pleasant blend of subtle comedy and farcical melodrama, this is a story about a mild-mannered Bank of England employee who concocts a plan to steal a million dollars worth of gold bars. When they are shipped to Paris and melted down into small replicas of the Eiffel Tower, a few are sold by mistake to a group of British schoolgirls. A mad man-hunt, often a satire on the traditional hair-raising chase, follows, with Actor Guinness providing numerous delightful touches throughout.

Macao (Thurs.-Sat.) is a typical but entertainingly-told adventure piece, set on a Portuguese island off the coast of Hong Kong, where gambling, romance and murder are virtually 24-hour pastimes. Robert Mitchum, Jane Russell and William Bendix are a cut or two below the sensational in their acting ability but there is sufficient drama and occasional humor to carry the film along in enjoyable fashion.

THE PLAYHOUSE

the Princeton Riding Club will be given Sunday on its grounds at the foot of Bayard Lane. Some 70 pupils of Mrs. Anita Hazeck, director of the school, will participate.

The program will start at 10 o'clock, with beginners' classes active until noon. The afternoon session at 2 will include classes from New Jersey College for Women, the Solebury School in New Hope; a family class, a class of girl scouts; several gymkhana games on horseback, including a halloon race and mock fox hunt; precision formation riding to music and jumping competitions.

William Sherman and Col. Henry Disston, horse show judges from New York, will judge the show, giving constructive criticism and advice to beginners and announcing the reasons for their decisions. Commentary over a public address system will keep the spectators informed of the classes and the judges' decisions. Tickets are 50 cents for adults, 25 cents for children.

Scholarships Awarded. Four college scholarships have been awarded to two members of the senior class at Miss Fine's School, and every member of the class was accepted by every college to which she applied.

Miss Mary Frances Fenn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William P. Fenn of 1 Ober Road, was offered scholarships by the Bryn Mawr Club of Princeton and a Pendleton scholarship by Wellesley College. Miss Fenn, president of the Student Council at Miss Fine's, will accept the latter, a regional award granted on a competitive basis.

Miss Leslie Van Zandt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Van Zandt of 120 Prospect Avenue, was awarded a scholarship by the Vassar Club of Princeton and also won first place (in competition with 127 other students) in the national examination for the Radcliffe College scholarship in English. President of the Dramatic Club and an editor of The Link, Miss Van Zandt will enter Radcliffe next fall.

Seniors at the school and colleges accepting them are the Misses Joan Barton, Swarthmore and Vassar; Mary Frances Fenn, Bryn Mawr and Wellesley; Barbara Gartner, Bradford; Marcia Goetz, Hood and Wells; Daisy Harper, Radcliffe, Vassar and Wellesley; Janet Lawall, Connecticut College for Women, Smith and Swarthmore; Jean Samuels, Colby; Cynthia Smith, Bryn Mawr, Mt. Holyoke and Swarthmore; Beverly Stewart, Radcliffe, Smith and Vassar; Leslie Van Zandt, Radcliffe and Vassar; Marina Von Neumann, Cornell and Radcliffe.

Summer Session at Hun. For the first time in several years, The Hun School will conduct a summer session, Dr. Paul R. Chesebro, its headmaster, has announced. It will run from June 23 to August 23.

Students entering Hun in the fall who need further academic preparation will be enrolled, while credit will also be given boys from other schools who have incurred academic deficiencies during the past year. Dr. Chesebro stressed the fact that such prospective pupils should consult their own headmasters before enrolling at Hun for the summer session.

Subjects to be offered include English, mathematics, sciences (both natural and social) and Latin, French and Spanish. The school will provide further details on request.

Miscellany. Group Arts first annual membership dinner will be held next Thursday, May 29, at the Witherspoon Y.M.C.A. Speakers will be Kenneth Kassler, Group Arts trustee and Princeton architect, and Dr. James Fleming, executive editor of the New York Amsterdam News and Who's Who in Colored America. Tickets at 14 Spring Street.

Sons have been born to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Tobolsky, 224-C Harrison; Mr. and Mrs. Marsden Peabody, 257 Moore; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Crawford, 223-A King Street; Mr. and Mrs. William H. Murphy, 53 Murray Place; daughters to Mr. and Mrs. William Shallow, 163 Nassau Street; Mr. and Mrs. Carl

A bake sale will be held Saturday at 9 at the Rockwood Dairy, 178 Nassau Street, by the Women's Fellowship of the Princeton Baptist Church at Penns Neck, Mr. and Mrs. W. Heisserman is in charge, assisted by Mrs. George Werner, Mrs. Malcolm Oleson and Mrs. Nils Lindblad.

The church will observe "Home-coming Sunday" at its morning service that weekend while the evening worship service at 8 will be marked by a sermon by the pastor, the Rev. Roland F. Chandler, and by the Rev. Benjamin J. Anderson, pastor of the Witherspoon Presbyterian Church, a guest speaker. The Rev. Mr. Anderson will take as his subject, "Strangers at the Gates," describing his assistance to migrant workers, and will also sing three spirituals.

Some 1,000 boys scouts will aid the conservation program in the Stony Brook-Milstone Watershed this summer. Under the direction of an expert in conservation work, groups of 20 scouts will camp in the Mercer-Hunterdon County area for three-day periods each.

They will combine their usual recreational activities with shrub planting along stream banks and other flood control methods designed by Watershed officials to prevent soil erosion. Directors of the association and the George Washington Council, B.S.A., have made arrangements for the project, which will begin early next month and last until Labor Day.

Two days before it was scheduled to go into action on a 24-hour basis, the Ground Observer Corps was notified by the Air Defense Command that plans for operating a round-the-clock aircraft warning service had been indefinitely postponed. The reason was not only a lack of sufficient volunteers but poor planning on the part of military leaders in calling for 24-hour service at such short notice. Having postponed start of the operation, it may now be even more difficult to enlist workers.

Window displays to mark the part the Red Cross plays in aiding military personnel and their dependents were arranged Saturday at its Palmer Square headquarters; Sears, Roebuck & Co., LaVake's and Hinkson's.

The $250,000 addition to the West Windsor Township School will be shown during an open house tour Wednesday night from 7:30 to 9. Pupils from the fifth through the eighth grades will conduct parents and friends through the building.

Headmaster Daniel J. Daly is chairman of the committee planning the occasion. He is being assisted by Mrs. Gerold Dollar, Mrs. Roland McMillen, Mrs. Judson Kurtz, Mrs. Albert Tindall, Mrs. Lawrence Dey, Mrs. Franklin Barlow, Mrs. Chester Page, Warren Schenck, Walter Conover and John Archibald, township principal. Board of education members in West Windsor include Lester Applegate, Jr., Robert Ellatash, Mr. Arthur Everett, Jr., Clarence Reed, William Roszel, Joseph Taylor, Francis Ward, Arthur West and Maurice Hawk, district clerk.

able cast that includes Van Heflin, Dea Jagger and the late Robert Walker, the film falls short of the mark. Instead of ranking as a powerful drama, it is presented as pure melodrama that tries to become maudlin in depicting a family tragedy.

Carbine Williams (Sun.-Tues.) is based on the true story of David M. Williams, a North Carolina mountaineer who perfected a new type of carbine while serving a 30-year sentence for manslaughter. James Stewart is cast in the title role, effectively portraying the story of a man who worked for his country while doing time for killing a Prohibition officer during a raid on his moonshine still. Two decades after the first model was turned out in the prison blacksmith shop, 8,000,000 of them were made for G.I.'s lighting in World War II.

About Face (Wed.-Sat.) is a musical with a military school setting and three cadets as central characters who are reminiscent of the fun-loving Rover Boys. It must be said, however, that they get into somewhat more complicated situations than their story-book counterparts: one of them is not only secretly married but is on the way toward becoming a father. The musical portion of the film, along with the dancing and gag nets, are generally more entertaining but are not uniformly good. With Gordon MacRae, Eddie Bracken, Phyllis Kirk, Virginia Gibson,

SPORTS IN PRINCETON

Sports Activity Tapers off. With the climax of the spring sports week reached last weekend, activity now begins to slow down, although the schedule actually carries well into the fall.

On Saturday, the Princeton basketball games, contests in golf, tennis, and track and the national rowing regatta at Syracuse on June 21.

Saturday will be marked by a track meet with Pennsylvania in Palmer Stadium at 2 and a ball game with Fordham at University Field at 2:30. The Tigers will meet Penn as their seventh dual meet victim of the season, but Fordham will prove a rugged opponent for the in-and-out Nassau nine.

Rhaphiel in Lacrosse. Some of last week's most unusual action occurred on University Field as late as 6:30 Saturday afternoon. By that time, firing on all other fronts had ceased but the Princeton and Harvard lacrosse teams were still hot and heavy. The two colleges which had tied for national honors in 1951 were locked in a 9-9 tie when these events occurred.

The Princeton defense appeared to be the winning goal but the referee disallowed it, ruling for a penalty against Princeton captain Canny.

Army jammed in another tally just before the gun sounded for the end of the game. The referee was mobbed by Princeton players, who finally moved to him, with the gun hadn't gone off until the second time the trigger was pulled.

When it was agreed that the gun had misfired the first time, and that the Princeton players were right, the clock had run out, the referee ordered a double overtime. Each team scored once in each period, with the hectic session finally ending in an 11-1 tie and Army officially prevailing the final outcome.

Navy Triumphant. There was no shortage of drama on Lake Carnegie as the Princeton rowing team included Princeton after the morning trial heats. Both the Tiger freshman and varsity eights were shut out of the finals, and the Jayvees finished fourth. Navy's crews won all three trials, and the varsity while swept all races in the Eastern championships, establishing the midshipmen as a likely bet to win both the national regatta and the Oregan.

The Nassau Johnnies topped Oldis Movers, 9-5, and University Laundry & Cleaners, 29-4. Trailing these were Princeton's own Johnnies, who tied on Oldis Movers, 9-7, and the Spontamen's Club, which beat University Laundry, 16-7. But the Movers and the Johnnies were tied for last place with 0-6 records.

Donald W. Griffin, Secretary of the University's Graduate Council, has been named the Assistant to the Secretary of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences. Griffin, who will continue in his present position, will help promote understanding between Princeton and the American Academy.

Mrs. William R. Babcock of 14 South Stanworth Drive has been elected to the national board of the Y.W.C.A. for a three-year term. Mrs. Babcock is a member of 12 Educational Councils and has been a member of the National Y.W.C.A. for several years.

The Unitarian Fellowship has announced that its usual Sunday morning study group will not meet this Sunday. The group, which meets at the Unitarian Church, 125 Dry School, The Society of Friends is now gathering for worship each Sunday at the Stony Brook Meeting House.

The Princeton Madrigal Group, which has been singing since 1945, will give a benefit concert this Thursday at 8:30 for Miss Fine's School at the school. Those taking part are Helen Johnson, Eleanor Kolly, Mary Johnson, Mary Lee Reynolds, Carolyn Smith, alto; Wells Huff, Harriet Powers, tenors; Elliot Forbes, old Powers, tenors; William Reynolds, basses.

Other teams in the circuit are the Harrison Street Tigers, the Princeton Tigers, the Princeton town Giants and Philadelphia.

both the national regatta and the Olympic tryouts this summer.

Because of the Tars' clear-cut supremacy in every event (their jayvee shell understroked Syracuse in the morning heat by ten and coasted in by four lengths), the best race of the day involved the Tiger varsity and Wisconsin. Princeton's early half-length lead over the 2,000-meter course was cut slowly by the Badgers, who won the national title last year on the debris-choked Ohio.

With 800 meters to go, Wisconsin took over by a deck length, lost the lead briefly and then came on again to stave off Princeton's strong challenge. Two-fifths of a second and a scant two feet separated the crews at the finish, with the winning time of 6:01.7 the best of the entire day. The morning breeze was, of course, stiffer than that which helped Navy slightly in its fine 6:03.7 final.

Navy's freshmen barely edged Harvard in the finals, but its jayvees took runner-up Penn by open water, and the varsity moved out on Wisconsin by the same margin—about a length and a half. The victory gave the middies the Rowe Cup, which Harvard had held, and established them as Eastern sprint champions, the title that went to Yale a year ago. The trophy is awarded on a point basis for the best all-around showing, and the Annapolis contingent ran away with that by scoring 24 points to 9 for second-place Harvard.

Two Out of Three. It's been a long time since a baseball team has scored four runs on University Field after two were out in the ninth and there were two strikes on the batter. But that's what College's scrappy outfit accomplished against Princeton Saturday, depriving the Tigers of wrapping up their third victory in four days.

Ray Chirurgi had a 4-1 lead going into the final frame, gave up a single to the first batter and retiring the next two on infield outs, putting the runner on third. With a two-two count on him, pinch-hitter Al Antinelli bounced to deep short and was safe at first by a step. The run scored and when Chirurgi walked the next batter, Eddie Donovan lifted him for Dave Sister.

It was a move that normally would have paid off, but a pair of wrong-field hits cost Princeton the ball game. Left-hander Bruce Dursema sliced a line-drive single off Herky Parke's glove at third to make it 4-3 and leave two aboard.

Kings Inn defeated Veterans Taxi, 13-2, in the Girls' League while the Gulf Station was turning back Peresett Appliance, 14-7. Virginia Mershon and Alice Keiunji, a pair of veteran pitchers, were the winners.

ETS and Coans Clubbers have yet to see action. Hopes are that the weather will permit a full schedule to be played this Thursday evening.

Short Notes. The track team took four individual titles as it placed third (behind Army and Cornell) in the Heptagonals at West Point. Al Pittis set a Princeton two-mile record of 9:17.3, eight seconds better than the 20-year old mark Bill Bontron made as a sophomore in the IC4-A's. Len Lyons in the shot, Buzz Taylor in the broad jump and Al Rauch in the 880 were the Tigers' other winners.

Princeton golfers won the Metropolitan Intercollegiate title again, with Frank Rhodes taking the individual crown, and then blanked Fordham, 9-0, Saturday. The match against Temple Saturday is scheduled to round out the season.

Cornell, previously unbeaten in Eastern Association play, bowed to the tennis team, 6-3. Princeton has virtually clinched its third straight title in this section of the country, something no other college has done since the association was formed in 1940.

Somerville became Princeton High School's latest track victim, running the Little Tigers' string to 34 over four seasons. The score of Monday's meet was 85-32, and Hightstown was expected to fall prey to the powerful Blue and White Wednesday.

Co-captain Buster Thomas ripped off a 50.7 second 440 on Monday which Coach Irwin Weiss believes is the best schoolboy effort in the state this season. Al Terry in the sprints and Carl Brown in the high hurdles and high jump scored doubles for the victors, who took 13 of 15 first places.

After starting off the sea-son with four victories in a row, Princeton High's baseball team is now suffering from a string of reverses. Monday's 6-2 loss to Hamilton marked the third successive defeat for the Little Tigers.

Hamilton scored all its runs in a big fifth inning as it joined Lawrence.

& Play a table and chair set that could be the wisest investment you'll make in children's furniture. For an infant, just sitting up and dabbling in the Pablum, it's a U-shaped table with the chair in the slot, copy-desk fashion. That you've seen before.

But for an older child, it's a standard-size table and chair set, separate chair and square-top table. When the baby is little, he can play with the vari-colored beads strung in metal struts from the table corners. You can remove these struts when you convert the set to separate table and chair.

The finish is lacquered with four coats, so spillings just wipe off. All this costs $24.95—not had for all that usability. (A pad to cover arms, seat and back of chair is $2.98 more).

Listen to this and write it in your baby book: polka-dot diapers! Large, nickel-sized dots in green, yellow or (whoops!) lavender march across a Curly diaper. You only get three for your $1.75 but after all, a baby doesn't go formal every day. For a change (if you'll allow us a double entendre) you can have pastels: yellow, blue or pink solids.

Carter who made the infant dresses with that famous Carter shoulder, now makes infant clothes that are a bit more dressed up. A pale green nylon dress has a small ruffle at neck, smocking, and panties to match (also a sacque.) The earlier Carter dresses, the Rosebud line, now come in a wider color range than before, with more to choose from: sacque, gown, panties, etc.

Imagine! Polka Dots! It's going to be a long time before we get over those diapers.

Dance on the Ceiling . . . The newest, happiest idea for your square dancing: denim ballet slippers, of all things. Bailey's, 14 Witherspoon, has these in faded blue, faded red or charcoal, with foam rubber soles. Denim can look so neat and small; even if you wear a size . . . well, even if you aren't Cinderella, your feet will look tiny and feel relaxed in these. Why not buy a pair for the Group Arts Square Dance at the High School this Saturday night?

Mr. Bailey has seersucker pajamas for your comfort. They're lightly sketched with Parisian scenes, and held to the shoulder with red or aqua tapes. Couldn't be cooler, and only $2.95.

Also on the cooler side: a white nylon acetate "blouse," hardly big enough to deserve the name. A suggestion of sleeve, elastired, boat neck and waistband, ditto. Tucked and sheer, and if you can wear it, you'll look like cotton candy. It costs $1.98.

Lounging around? Crinkle-tone pedal pushers never need ironing, they're that lazy. Skirt same way. Or try a sophisticated pair of matalgor pants (tight pedal pushers) in navy with white buttons from waistband to split in leg. And here's a good summer item — maternity pedal pushers (assuming you can still push a pedal) in faded blue denim for $2.98.

Sheer Tweed? Yes, that's right. Mayme Mead, 8 Tulane, has black or navy rayon and silk tweed in an unusual sheer that really looks like tweed. And a black silk organdy for $39.95 that could dress you up all summer and fall. Checked gingham, black and white, has no straps except a black velvet ribbon and lots of rhinestones at the neck.

We were fascinated by an outspoken India print—mostly yellow with a built-in bra, boned, strapless bodice and a halter that maneuvers around in a mysterious way they can't even explain at the shop. Go try it on, because if you can get the hang of it, you'll be so fascinated you'll buy it, straight off.
